"Xylitol's Link to Dental Caries Prevention"

With Speaker Cindy Heinz-Schoeninger, RDH, BS

Cindy attended the University of Detroit Mercy where she received her Bachelor of Science and Dental Hygiene degrees. She has extensive experience in both general and periodontal practice settings and has been teaching dental health to school children for over ten years. Since 2002, Cindy has been a member of the school health team and has educated hundreds of children on dental health. She received the "Special Persons Award" from Henry Ford Macomb Hospitals School Health Network for her many years of dedicated services. She developed and implemented a dental health program in a school setting in which they sell 100% xylitol gum and mints to the students.

COURSE OBJECTIVES/OVERVIEW

Upon completion of this course, attendees should be able to:

- Know the history of xylitol and what it is.
- Understand how xylitol interferes with bacterial function, alters biofilm and affects the inflammatory process.
- Recommend xylitol in adequate amounts for health benefits.
- Understand the caries process and new diagnostic techniques.
- Incorporate xylitol in a treatment plan that includes risk assessment, diagnostic techniques and remineralization products.
