"Personalized Periodontal Medicine; A New Approach to Total Body Health"

Wednesday February 27, 2019

Bloomfield Twp. Library 1099 Lone Pine Rd
6-8:30 PM 2 CE Lecture

Dr. Doug Thompson

Dr. Thompson began his dental career at age eighteen, working as an in-house laboratory technician. He graduated from University of Michigan School of Dentistry in 1996 and then completed a one-year hospital-based V. A. Residency in 1997. He then bought an established private practice in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, and continues to practice there today under the practice name, Integrative Oral Medicine. Dr. Thompson has completed hundreds of hours of continuing education at the Kois Center in Seattle, Washington, directed by Dr. John Kois. In 2015 he was offered and accepted a part time faculty position teaching about Personalized Periodontal Medicine. In 2016, he added the Wellness Dentistry topic to his teaching role. In addition to his dental training, Dr. Thompson is pursuing a Fellowship in AntiAging and Regenerative Medicine through the American Academy of Anti-Aging, Regenerative and Functional Medicine. He has published professionally, and in 2015 Dr. Thompson founded the Wellness Dentistry Network, a community of dentists with a keen awareness of how oral conditions affect whole body health. Dr. Thompson can be reached at doug@wellnessdentistrynetwork.com or drdoug@ioralmed.com.

Periodontal disease detection criteria and how we treat active disease are changing. It is becoming clearer and clearer that it is not just an oral problem; it is a systemic problem. The new approach features the use of the saliva (salivary diagnostics) and other personalized patient information to assist with disease diagnosis and treatment. These concepts, embraced by the entire team, can transform your routine hygiene services to value added experiences of personalized periodontal medicine. This approach will ultimately result in healthier patients, a healthier practice and healthier teams! These questions will come clear when working with Dr. Thompson:

- How do I establish a quality, consistent, predictable periodontal management program?
- Can periodontal health lead to healthier patients overall?
- What are the benefits of using salivary diagnostics?
- What is the significance of embracing the oral systemic link?
- Can this be delegated and directed by your team?

DESCRIPTION:

Personalized Periodontal Medicine courses are designed for the general practitioner, their lead hygienist and/or their entire team who are serious about advancing the periodontal health of their patients, the health of their team and the health of their practice. Learn how saliva testing is a key factor in diagnosis of disease. An understanding of the oral systemic link, complemented with the use of salivary diagnostics provides an opportunity for significant professional and financial growth for your entire office. Utilizing a comprehensive approach, and adding organized structure, you can radically transform your practice and demonstrate to your patients your true concern for their overall wellness.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

- Increase the periodontal awareness of everyone in the office and develop an office-wide high quality periodontal policy.
- Learn awareness about how the bacterial profile may affect vascular disease concerns and heart attack risk.
- Outline the use of the saliva to determine the bacteria profile and genetic susceptibility (salivary diagnostics), and the benefits of both, in the care of active disease patients.
- Show the use of clinical adjuncts to control inflammation and the rate of clinical attachment loss.
- Explore how to relate the diagnosis to periodontal risk assessment.

Reveal implementation challenges in leading a new periodontal standard of care
